Aug 253

When he heard of Gallus' murder, PUBLIUS LICINIUS VALARIANUS, who had been entrusted by Gallus with the raising of troops for a campaign in the Upper Danube, had himself proclaimed emperor, and marched on Italy with the forces he had assembled.

Aemilianus was killed by his own army near SPOLETO in Oct 253 after a reign of 88 days. The place where he died was known afterwards as the Bridge of Blood.
